Declaration

of resupply

According to Article 50, paragraph 4 of the Environmental Taxes Act, the supply of electricity or natural gas is not considered as such if the recipient resupplies the electricity or gas to another consumer. In that case, the supplier may refrain from charging and remitting energy tax on the supply of electricity and/or natural gas to an organizational unit engaged in supplying electricity and/or natural gas, or to a consumer who in turn resupplies the electricity and/or natural gas to another consumer.

The undersigned consumer/resupplier declares that

- He/she makes actual use of the above-mentioned connection(s) and uses part of the electricity and/or natural gas supplied by the supplier for own consumption, while resupplying another part to other consumers; or

- He/she is engaged in the supply of electricity and/or natural gas;

- He/she is liable for energy tax on his/her own consumption of electricity and/or natural gas and correctly and timely remits the energy tax due to the Tax Authority;

- He/she is liable for energy tax on the portion of electricity and/or natural gas resupplied and correctly and timely remits the energy tax due to the Tax Authority;

- The quantity of electricity and/or natural gas consumed for own use is measured with electricity and/or gas meters;

- His/her administration is organized in such a way that all business transactions relevant to energy tax are clearly recorded.

Further explanation can be found in section 7.4.5 of the Environmental Taxes Handbook, published on the Tax Authority's website.

Explanation of this declaration

This declaration is valid indefinitely, or until the consumer informs the supplier in writing that the situation has changed. If the consumer submits an incorrect declaration or fails to withdraw the declaration when circumstances change that affect energy tax liability, the supplier cannot be held responsible for the consequences.

If inspections by the Tax Authority or otherwise reveal that, based on this declaration, the supplier has failed to remit energy tax, the Tax Authority may directly levy the unpaid energy tax (Renewable Energy Storage levy) from the consumer. If the Tax Authority levies the supplier instead, the supplier or its legal successor will charge the unpaid tax, including any fines and/or damages incurred, to the consumer. The consumer declares to pay this total amount directly to the supplier. It is therefore essential that any changes affecting tax liability are immediately reported to the supplier.

Effective date of the declaration

The requested application of the “exemption” due to resupply can only take effect from the month in which the declaration is signed and dated. Timely submission of a signed declaration — i.e., before the start of supply — is essential. To qualify for the exemption, the supplier must have a signed declaration in advance. Retroactive corrections are not possible.

Additional requirements

As supporting evidence, the supplier requests a copy of the cover page of the energy tax return form that the consumer must complete. If this is not available, a copy of the letter from the Tax Authority inviting the consumer to complete this return form in the future will suffice.

Consumer / declarant information

Company name

Address

Postal code and city

Account number

Supply address information

EAN code Gas

EAN code Electricity

Completed truthfully

Name

Position

City

Date

Signature

Supplier information

Name	Eneco Zakelijk B.V.
Address	Marten Meesweg 5
Postal code and city	3068 AV Rotterdam

Please send the completed declaration to the email address of your contact person. You can find this address at the top right of your invoice. Questions? Chat with us via eneco.nl/zakelijk.